

Exploring Gaps, Opportunities, Barriers, and Enablers in Malnutrition Policy through Key Informant Interviews: a Qualitative Inquiry from the CANDReaM Initiative

Katherine L Ford, Roseann Nasser, Carlota Basualdo-Hammond, Celia Laur, Maira Quintanilha, Heather Keller, Leah Gramlich

Supplement 1 - CANDReaM Interview Guide

1. What type of stakeholder do you identify?
 - a. Academics or health care professionals
 - b. Government representatives/policy makers
 - c. Nutrition professional or not-for-profit organizations
 - d. Commercial entities
 - e. Patient representatives
 - f. Other, please specify.
2. What geographical region do you work/represent?
3. Please tell us about your professional role related to policy and/or malnutrition.
4. What are your experiences with DRM?
 - a. What are your experiences with administrative or resource allocation decision making related to DRM?
 - b. What are your experiences with monitoring activities related to DRM, for example, surveillance or quality improvement activities?
 - c. What are your experiences with front-line clinical practice or team management related to DRM?
 - d. What are your experiences with nutrition education and promotion around DRM?
5. Can you describe any policies to address DRM that you are aware of.
 - a. Within or outside of your country.
6. Can you describe how you measure or consider adoption of policy.
7. In your opinion, how do you ensure that policies are implemented?
 - a. Do you feel that DRM policies have made a difference in nutrition care? Please elaborate.
 - b. Can you describe any barriers and enablers to policy implementation?
8. Are there sectors of health care that CAN DReaM should focus on? Please elaborate.
9. Please share any suggestions that you have for ensuring that the patient and/or care provider's voice is heard in DRM policy work.
 - a. In your opinion, what is the benchmark for knowing that a policy is patient-focused?
10. Please share your suggestions for creating an alliance within your jurisdiction
 - a. Who should be included?
11. Please elaborate on anything else that you deem relevant to DRM policy.